IMMIGRATION

Which Way, America?

"Go liberal," say Daniel Carroll Rodas & Lucia Guzman
"Go conservative," say Rosemary Jenks & David Schultheis

A Public-Policy Debate • January 12, 2011

CENTENNIAL INSTITUTE
Colorado Christian University

Centennial Institute

The Colorado Christian University think tank invites you to attend a debate on:

IMMIGRATION POLICY 2011

What is Best, Civically and Morally?
A Clash of Visions • January 12, 2011

The Issue: Immigration to the United States—legal and illegal, past and future—is decisive for who we are as a nation. America's goodness is rooted in our openness and generosity as a land of opportunity. America's greatness is rooted in our rule of law, obligations of citizenship, economic and political integrity. Which best reconciles all these things: a more liberal or a more conservative immigration policy?

The Debaters: Arguing for the conservative side will be Rosemary Jenks, Director of Government Relations for Numbers USA, a Washington-based policy group, and former State Sen. David Schultheis (R-Colorado Springs). Arguing for the liberal side will be Daniel Carroll Rodas, a professor at Denver Seminary, and State Sen. Lucia Guzman (D-Denver).

Rosemary Jenks

David Schultheis

Hon. Daniel Carroll Rodas

Sen. Lucia Guzman

Lakewood Cultural Center, 470 S. Allison Parkway, Lakewood, CO 80226

Wednesday, January 12, 2011, 7:00-8:30 p.m.

FREE and open to the public, but seating is limited. Please make reservations by e-mail at Centennial@ccu.edu or by phone at 303.963.3424.

Colorado Christian
UNIVERSITY

8787 W. Alameda Ave.
Lakewood, CO 80226

Director, John Andrews • Phone: 303.963.3424 • E-mail: Centennial@ccu.edu • Web: www.CentennialCCU.org

The Centennial Institute sponsors research, events, and publications to enhance public understanding of the most important issues facing our state and nation. By proclaiming Truth, we aim to foster faith, family, and freedom, teach citizenship, and renew the spirit of 1776.